Objectives

This project aims to tackle parts of both the digital field of sustainability in order to create a symbiotic relationship meant to benefit each of them, as both of these have been great areas of interest and with plenty of room for improvement in the past years all over Europe and beyond.

The need of promoting digital initiatives for sustainability has been revealed after conducting an extensive needs assessment among our community members and partners. Following this research, the main areas of interest of the involved parties proved to be related to four of the 17 SDGs, respectively:

- no 5: Gender Equality,
- no 4: Ensure inclusive and equitable quality education and promote lifelong learning opportunities for all,
- no 13: Climate action and
- no 16: Peace, justice and strong institutions.

This initiative has four general objectives which will be accomplished by the end of the project:

- O1: Raising awareness and know-how among 40 youth workers on using digital tools to create more sustainable youth projects
- O2: Exchanging of digital good practices in the field of sustainability in youth work
- O3: Networking to foster cooperation between 19 partners
- O4: Acquiring know-how and exploring possibilities of using digital tools to enhance the achievement of the SDGs among youth workers

Profile of participants

1. Youth workers (with fewer opportunities in priority).
2. Preferably professionally or voluntarily engaged in youth work and youth projects.
3. Interested and willing to actively engage to work on the topic.
4. Over 18 years old.

Venue

The project will be taking place in the city of Clermont-Ferrand. The city is renowned for its famous chain of extinct volcanoes that surround the city, including the highest, Puy-de-Dôme, some 13 km away from the city centre. The volcano stones are used to build a lot of monuments in the city and you'll love the gothic style of the buildings in the city—especially the Notre Dame Cathedral. The city is also a nominee for the European Capital of Culture title in 2028 also. You can read more about this beautiful city here. You will be hosted in single rooms at "Residence les Gourlettes", 20 Rue des Gourlettes, 63000 Clermont-Ferrand, France

Travelling to Clermont-Ferrand

1- The easiest way is for you to book your flight to Lyon St Exupéry Airport and from there you can catch a FlixBus straight to Clermont-Ferrand. (Remember to book your FlixBus beforehand). Should a FlixBus not be available at the airport by the time you arrive, you'll have to get the RhoneExpress train from the airport, get down at the Vaux en Velin stop, there's a metro stop right at where you get down. You then pick the metro to Perrache stop. From Perrache, there's a FlixBus straight to Clermont-Ferrand. Once in Clermont-Ferrand, get down at the last stop Les Salins. From there, walk to the "Maison de la Culture" tram station and pick the tramway going to "La Pardieu Gare", get down at "Gabriel-Montpied". The residence is a minute walk from there.

2- Another option will be to travel to Paris by flight and get a FlixBus to Clermont Ferrand from either Orly or CDG airport (depending on the airport you land at). This option is longer and more stressful as if there's not FlixBus you'll have to commute to Paris Bercy's train station and catch a train to Clermont-Ferrand. We can have a discussion on this.
